Death of Mrs. E. H. Ranney—Horse Killed by Lightning—Persons and Socials.

Mrs. E. H. Ranney died Tuesday, July 14, of Bright's disease at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Charles Taylor. Mehtable Locke, daughter of Joseph and Mary Locke, was born in Kirby, Dec. 22, 1843. Most of her life was spent in that town. In 1868 she was married to Edson H. Ranney, who survives her. To them were born three daughters, Addie, wife of Elbridge Newman of Lyndon, Mary, who tenderly cared for her during her last illness, and Lottie, wife of Charles Taylor. She was a devoted wife and mother, and will be greatly missed in her home. She was a member of the Methodist church of Concord, and her pastor, Rev. George Smith, officiated at the funeral, which was held at her late home Thursday, afternoon at one o'clock. A male quartet of St. Johnsbury sang several beautiful selections. The flowers were many and beautiful. The interment was at Grove Cemetery, St. Johnsbury East. Those from out of town who attended the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ranney of Danville, Mr. and Mrs. D. J. ## VERMONT NEWS

The Bennington Town Fair was destroyed by fire July 12. The loss is estimated at $12,000. The 14 inmates were rescued with considerable difficulty, as several are bed-ridden.

The semi-annual report of the Vermont free library commission has been made by Miss Rebecca Wright, secretary, which shows the work being done by the commission and the increase made. The fiscal year of the commission has been changed, so the report is for seven months ending July 1. In that time, 1,041 books have come into the hands of the commission and the sum of $11.68 has been expended in aiding the following towns: West Burke, Dummerston, Halifax, Hancock, Dover and North Hero. The value of the property belonging to the commission at the present time is $7,847.68. During the past seven months applications for assistance were received from 73 towns and 40 were supplied with $25 worth of books out of that number.

The body of an unknown man was found on the tracks of the Central Vermont railway between Montpelier and Montpelier Junction July 14. The body had been cut in two evidently by the wheels of a train.

D. P. Wright is the first in Vermont to take up overhead irrigation which he is trying out at his farm in Westminster, on two acres of onions. The water is in a ravine below, where a dam has been built and a hose powered engine installed. The water is forced into the pipes on the hill at the rate of 47 gallons an acre a minute, equal in six hours to a rainfall of one-half inch. The pipes are run across the top of seven-foot posts set at regular intervals and those on each acre have 200 nozzles, which have to be turned to different angles by hand. It requires six positions of the nozzles to cover all the ground. The water will be used mostly during July when the onions are bottoming. Overhead irrigation is practiced a little in Massachusetts, but Mr. Wright is the pioneer in Vermont. His experiment is being watched by his neighbors with keen interest. The cost of installing the system is about $250.

About 40 members of the Vermont Rural Letter Carriers' association attended the 10th annual convention which opened at Knights of Columbus hall in St. Albans, July 15 at 1:30 o'clock. The afternoon program was concluded with reports from J. M. Carpenter of St. Johnsbury and A. A. Webster of West Glover, national delegates.

Plans are being completed for the entertainment of the Vermont State Sunday School association at Barre, October 21, 22, 23. A very interesting program is being arranged.

The Central Vermont railroad was blocked for 12 hours July 14 by a big freight wreck. No lives were lost, but the loss was considerable.

H. W. Vail, chairman of the committee chosen by the town to erect a suitable marker at the site of the Caghnawaka Indian camp ground used in the east part of the town of Randolph in 1780, is arranging a program of dedication at that place August 18.

The proposed permanent memorial to Commodore Thomas Macdonough is doubtless assured by the action of the United States Senate which has passed the bill making a federal appropriation for the observance of the 100th anniversary of the battle of Plattsburg next September and which was recently amended to give $15,000 towards the erection of a monument to Commodore Macdonough. The memorial will be unveiled during the celebration to be held in Vergennes September 6, 7 and 8, in conjunction with the observance of the centennial of the battle of Plattsburg, which will take place at Plattsburg, the same month.

Jerome F. Hale has rounded out 19 years of service as the popular landlord of Hale's Tavern, Wells River, and during that time 163,095 guests have been entertained at his eatery. This is an average of 8,583 every year. In 1913 he entertained 8,683 guests and the prospects are that this year's travel will exceed the average.

Hardwick had an Industrial Day last Wednesday. An excursion was given to the famous Woodbury granite quarries.

The cupola of the marble Catholic church in Middlebury was struck by lightning Saturday evening, July 13, about eight o'clock during the severest storm experienced there in several years. A quantity of marble came crashing to the street, but no one was injured. It is estimated that damage to the amount of $1,000 was done to the church.

The Modern Woodmen of America in Bennington are looking for Jacob Sperber, one of the members of the society at Bennington, who was recently chosen chairman of the committee to make arrangements for the picnic and field day held July 4 in the upper grove on the Vermont soldiers' home property. Nearly all of the receipts from the entrance admission, the steam clam dinner, the sales at the ice cream booth, and soft drinks counter were turned over, it is claimed, to Sperber, who was to pay the bills and turn the balance into the treasury. The receipts were over $300 and the expenses came to within $50 to $75 of this sum.

The 400 foot well on the Estey Organ Co.'s premises at Brattleboro, in process of being driven for a long time, has been completed and the pump connections have been made. For the present it will be used for the boilers and for fire protection, but in due time water will be piped to all parts of the big plant.

Old Home Week will be celebrated in Jamaica August 2 to 7. This will be the first observance of the kind in the town, and many former residents are expected. The Jamaica Benefit association, an organization of women which has done much good for the town, is behind the movement and is sending out invitations. The proceeds will be used toward providing cement sidewalks for the village.

Robert H. Drake, druggist, of Pittsford was recently fined $500 for selling Jamaica ginger.

Several Barre churches are to unite this summer in out-of-door services Sunday evenings. Nearly all of the Protestant churches have decided to discontinue Sunday evening services to unite in a religious program in City Park.

Permanent committees to take charge of the entertainment of fresh air children from New York in Rutland year after year are organized at Rutland Friday afternoon at the instigation of Miss Arden, a New York settlement worker, who is visiting all Vermont towns between South Shaftsbury and Middlebury and west to Middletown Springs to effect these organizations. The committees in each town will consist of the pastors, ex-officio, and two persons from each church. A new plan this season divides the country into districts, all children going to a given district making the trip to and from New York at one time. To the district including South Shaftsbury, Middletown Springs, and intermediate points goes the honor of entertaining the largest party ever sent to this part of the country, 380 little waifs being on an outing there at the present time. Rutland and West Rutland will compose a district by themselves and Brandon, Middlebury, and intermediate places another district.

The Brattleboro Woman's club has so far raised $481 for the relief of those who suffered in the Salem, Mass., fire. The money has already been forwarded.

John R. Wilson, of Montpelier, has received an interesting testimonial of thanks from the school children of Honolulu, Hawaii, for sending them a sketch and memorial of the Civil War. It is signed by 36 children, made up of Japanese, Portuguese, Koreans, Chinese, and Hawaiians.

The daughter of Harry Sturtevant of Hartford found the other day a robin's egg and carrying it home inquired what she should do with it. Her father placed it in a swallow's nest. The egg became a robin and the swallow fed it the same as her three little brothers.

The loss suffered in the cloud-burst at Jericho, July 8, is estimated at between $12,000 and $15,000. Rivers and brooks were filled and Lee river was a raging torrent, taking everything in its course. Ten bridges, some of them iron structures, went down the stream. The roadbed was washed in places 10 feet deep, and the river's course was entirely changed. Farms were covered with sand and stone, crops being ruined.
